MADE MANDATORY.

The sections of the statute relating to the report to be made is as follows:
Every person who shall be a candidate before any caucus or convention, or at any primary election, or at any election for any State, county, city, township, district or municipal office, or for senator or member of the House of Delegates of Virginia, or for senator or representative in the Congress of the United States, shall, within thirty days after the election, caucus, convention or primary election held to fill such office or beard empowered by law to issue certificates of election to such office or place, make out and file with the officer or beard empowered by law to issue certificates of election to such office or place, and a duplicate thereof with the clerk of the county or corporation court for any county or city in which such candidate resides, a statement in writing, which statement and duplicate shall be subscribed and sworn to by such candidate before an officer authorized to administer oaths, setting forth in detail all sums of money contributed, disbursed, expended or promised by him, and to the best of his knowledge and belief by any persons or person in his behalf, wholly or in part, endeavoring to secure his nomina-or promised by him, and to the best of his knowledge and belief by any persons or person in his behalf, wholly or in part, endeavoring to secure his nomination or election to such office or place; and also all sums of money contributed, disbursed, expended or promised by him in support and in connection with the homination or election of any other persons at such election, primary or nominating convention, and showing the dates when, the persons to whom and the purposes for which all such nums were pald, expended or promised.

A SWEEPING OATH.

Such statement shall also set forth that the same is as full and expilict as affiant is able to make it; and he shall also, before some officer qualified to administer oaths, take, subscribe to and file with said statement the following oath:

I do solemnly swear that the statement herewith filed embraces all money spent by me or in my behalf, with my knowledge and consent, by my adherents and friends; that I have neither directly nor indirectly arranged, encouraged nor convented at the stending day money relieds.

time on the limb affected. Excruciating pain and intense suffering was endured with all sorts of remedies on trial and numberless physician's calls and prescriptions applied, but all practically with but little benefit. However, at last the remedial agent was found in Cuticura Cintment which surely proved its weight in gold, alleviating pain and causing healing processes to commence and a cure speedily effected.

"She has also used the Cuticura Cintment with marked benefit in crysipelas of the face and eczoma. The Cuticura Soap has also established a record only as the best; cleansing, purifying and healing in its nature, having proved itself a most excellent and valuable suxiliary to the Cuticura Cintment. I would remark that this testimonial is entirely unsolicited, being a voluntary contribution for humanity's sake, and the commendation of the Cuticura Remedies to the fullest condence, being satisfied of their purity, genuineness and almost miracles wrought."

SWEPT BY THE WAVES

Rough Voyage of Richmonders on the Hamilton.

BUT FEW WERE AT SUPPER

Sea-Sickness Kept the Majority in Their Bunks-Speciators of an Effort to Rescus a Crew in

A number of well known Richmonders who were passengers on the Old Dominion steamship Hamilton, which salled from New York for Norfolk Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock, had a stormy and rather eventful passage and were heartily glad to reach home again. Aside from being spectators of an effort to off Sandy Hook, the passengers, along succor the crew of a senoner in discussion off Sandy Hook, the passengers, along with many others from various parts of the country, were compelled to pay their tribute to Noptune before the end of the voyage. About eight miles off Old Point the Hamilton's engines broke down and the vessel had to lie to for an hour or more while the damage was being realized. After leaving Old Point, and on the way to Norfolk, the pumps of the stamer broke down, and the vessel came to anchor and sent a boat ashore to ask for another steamer, to which they might transfer the passengers. The Brandon responded, and, coming alongside, took the passengers off and carried them to the company's dock. This was done merely to save the passengers the inconvenience of waiting in sight of port for several hours before landing.

VERY ROUGH WEATHER.

The Hamilton left her wharf on time at 3 o'clock Saturday afternoon, with very rough weather prevailing, and after a few miles she encountered a heavy sea. Eight or ten miles out, and off Sandy Hook, the steamer sighted a three-master with ensign down, a signal of distress. The captain of the Hamilton went to the rescue and lay to, megaphoning an inquiry as to the trouble and offering assistance. The reply was that the vessel, was not in a sinking condition, but had some women on board who desired to baken off. The captain of the Hamilton circled the schooner with his ship and sought to Induce the schooner to launch its small boats and send the women passengers aboard the Hamilton. The women declined to get into the boats in the conditions prevailing. Thereupon, being assured that the vessel was not in a sinking condition, and that the crew did not purpose abandoning her, the Hamilton steamed.

Among the well known Richmonders on board were Mr. W. H. Sands. Mr. Thomas F. Meany, Mr. H. F. W. Southern, Mr. Smith and others. They watched the exchange of signals and the efforts of the Hamilton to assist the schooner with keen interest, and generally are of opinion that DANGEROUS POSITION. From a New York telegram cent sunday night, however, it seems that chooner was in a dangerous position.

"It was 11 o'clock this morning when he Navigator located the twelve persons

RESCUE ATTENDED BY PERIL.

"It was it o'clock this morning when the Navigator located the twelve persons in their perilous position, and it was fully an hour before they could be rescued. This was accomplished in as daring a manner as has been tiod in any sea tale, fiction or tact. The big tube made several attempts to get near the yawl, and then, finally going to windward of them, cast off the lifeboat line. With splendid dexterity a line was sent from the lifeboat to a pole on the fish pound, and then was paid out until the yawl was reached.

"In such conditions were the ship-wrecked ones that they could not help themselves, and Captain Patterson and his crew had to simply lift them out. First came the two women and then three sailors. Meantime, under the direction of Mr. Iselin, the Navigator's crew had thrown a dozen pails of oil to the windward of the yawl, so that the sea was calmed and the big tug had taken a position so that the wind did not catch her on the beam. The women, when brought abourd, were carefully attended to, Mr. Iselin having taken along a chambermaid from the tender Sunbeam.

WOMEN REFUSE TO LEAVE.

"Captain Frost, of the Mason, said that just before the Navigator arrived they had concluded that the women would de in a faw hours, and they had decided to try for the beach. He said that Saturday they were out near the lightship at anchor. The Oid Dominion Line steamer Hamilton offered to take them off, and he urged the women to go, but they declined to leave without the men. The men thought the storm would abate and they would get the boat to harbor in safety. During the night shore and cleared herself. The going down in tow of the Navigator was in itself a perilous thing in such a sea. When the men returned Mr. Iselin said a special word of pialse to them, and in return they heartily cheered."

A gentleman on board the steamer Hamilton in describing the violence of the storm and the prevalence of mal de mer as a result of the buffeting by the waves, relates that of a passenger list of abo
